Assistant Professor (Clinical), Department of Medicine, Division of Respiratory Medicine (C-210312)

Faculty of Medicine and Health Sciences – Department of Medicine, Division of Respiratory Medicine,
St. Mary's Hospital Centre

Position Description

The Division of Respiratory Medicine within the Department of Medicine of McGill University invites applications for a full-time clinician-teacher at the rank of Assistant Professor. The position is based at St. Mary's Hospital Centre. This is a Contract Academic Staff position and does not confer eligibility for tenure.

The Department of Medicine is a leader in academic medicine. Our educational and research missions support excellent and innovative clinical programs across our teaching hospitals. St. Mary's Hospital Centre is one of McGill's major teaching hospitals affiliated with the Faculty of Medicine and Health Sciences at Canada's internationally renowned McGill University, located in the vibrant and multicultural city of Montreal, in the province of Quebec.

Job Duties

As a Clinician-Teacher, the duties will include 50-70% clinical activity, 15-25% teaching, and 5-25% of research and/or administration. Clinical duties will include the following respiratory clinical services: bronchoscopy, consult service, service at the General Respiratory Outpatient Clinic, and pulmonary function testing. They will share in evening and weekend on-call duties. The incumbent is expected to develop and promote clinical innovation in the Respiratory Division. Applicants will be expected to contribute to clinical research and quality improvement activities.

The candidate is also expected to be actively involved in all aspects of McGill's academic mission (teaching and supervision of clinical trainees and graduate students and involvement in academic and administrative committees) and will be expected to demonstrate a commitment to equity, diversity and inclusion in these activities. McGill faculty members are expected to contribute to service activities within their units, the University, and the wider scholarly community.

Qualifications and Education requirements

Candidates must hold an MD degree and must have completed specialty training in Respiratory Medicine, be Royal College certified (or equivalent) and hold or be eligible for licensure in Quebec and certified by the Collège des médecins du Québec. At least one additional year of clinical and/or research training is required, in an area relevant to the practice of respiratory medicine at St. Mary's Hospital Centre.

Candidates should have strong interpersonal and leadership skills and must be fluent in English with a working knowledge of French.

McGill University is committed to equity and diversity within its community and values academic rigour and excellence. We welcome and encourage applications from racialized persons/visible minorities, women, Indigenous persons, persons with disabilities, ethnic minorities, and persons of minority sexual orientations and gender identities, as well as from all qualified candidates with the skills and knowledge to engage productively with diverse communities.

At McGill, research that reflects diverse intellectual traditions, methodologies, and modes of dissemination and translation is valued and encouraged. Candidates are invited to demonstrate their research impact both within and across academic disciplines and in other sectors, such as government, communities, or industry.

McGill further recognizes and fairly considers the impact of leaves (e.g., family care or health-related) that may contribute to career interruptions or slowdowns. Candidates are encouraged to signal any leave that affected productivity, or that may have had an effect on their career path. This information will be considered to ensure the equitable assessment of the candidate's record.

McGill implements an employment equity program and encourages members of designated equity groups to self-identify. It further seeks to ensure the equitable treatment and full inclusion of persons with disabilities by striving for the implementation of universal design principles transversally, across all facets of the University community, and through accommodation policies and procedures. Persons with disabilities who anticipate needing accommodations for any part of the application process may contact, in confidence, this email or phone at 514-398-2477.

All qualified applicants are encouraged to apply; however, in accordance with Canadian immigration requirements, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.
